GOLDEN CIRCLE LISTS ON NSX

Golden Circle achieved another key milestone in the Company's 60-year history with the start of a new life as a publicly-listed entity on the National Stock Exchange (NSX) on 19 March 2008.

Golden Circle Chairman Phil Cave said the NSX listing was the next step in the Company's financial turnaround towards sustainable profitability and growth. "The NSX listing is important for Golden Circle because it heralds the next step in the Company's journey back to being a stronger and more sustainable business," Mr Cave said.

He said it was essential that Golden Circle, which has a market capitalisation of more than $100 million, had access to an efficient structure that provided liquidity for securities and access to a larger pool of potential investors. "Our NSX listing will provide a market for existing shareholders and members of the public to more easily buy and sell Golden Circle shares," Mr Cave said.

Advisers: Minter Ellison (Gold Coast)

Brokers: ABN AMRO Morgans

ASIA PACIFIC TECHNOLOGY EXCHANGE TO BE AUSTRALIA'S "NASDAQ"

Australia is to have its own specialist exchange for technology companies, similar to NASDAQ in the United States and AIM in the United Kingdom.

To be known as the Asia Pacific Technology Exchange (APTEX), it will begin operating later this year with an expected 20 companies to be listed when it opens.

APTEX has been established by a joint venture between NSX Limited, and Enterprise Pacific Limited. Enterprise Pacific is a not-for-profit company formed under the Pacific Technology Corridor and Silicon Valley.

"Promotion of Australian technology, so that it's not lost overseas, is critical for the country's future," Enterprise Pacific chairman Geoff Mullins said. "Giving technology companies easier access to capital is the key to ensuring they retain a national link while becoming globally competitive."
